Within these walls . . .

Within these walls we can find friends and values which give our walls the meaning of school. These walls and what they contain make us into what we are. Within these walls we find a resting place between the home of our parents and that one of our own, where we prepare ourselves for that which will come after. Within these walls we find our friends, we find new opportunities to challenge our best and we formulate the values which will determine our future and our world.

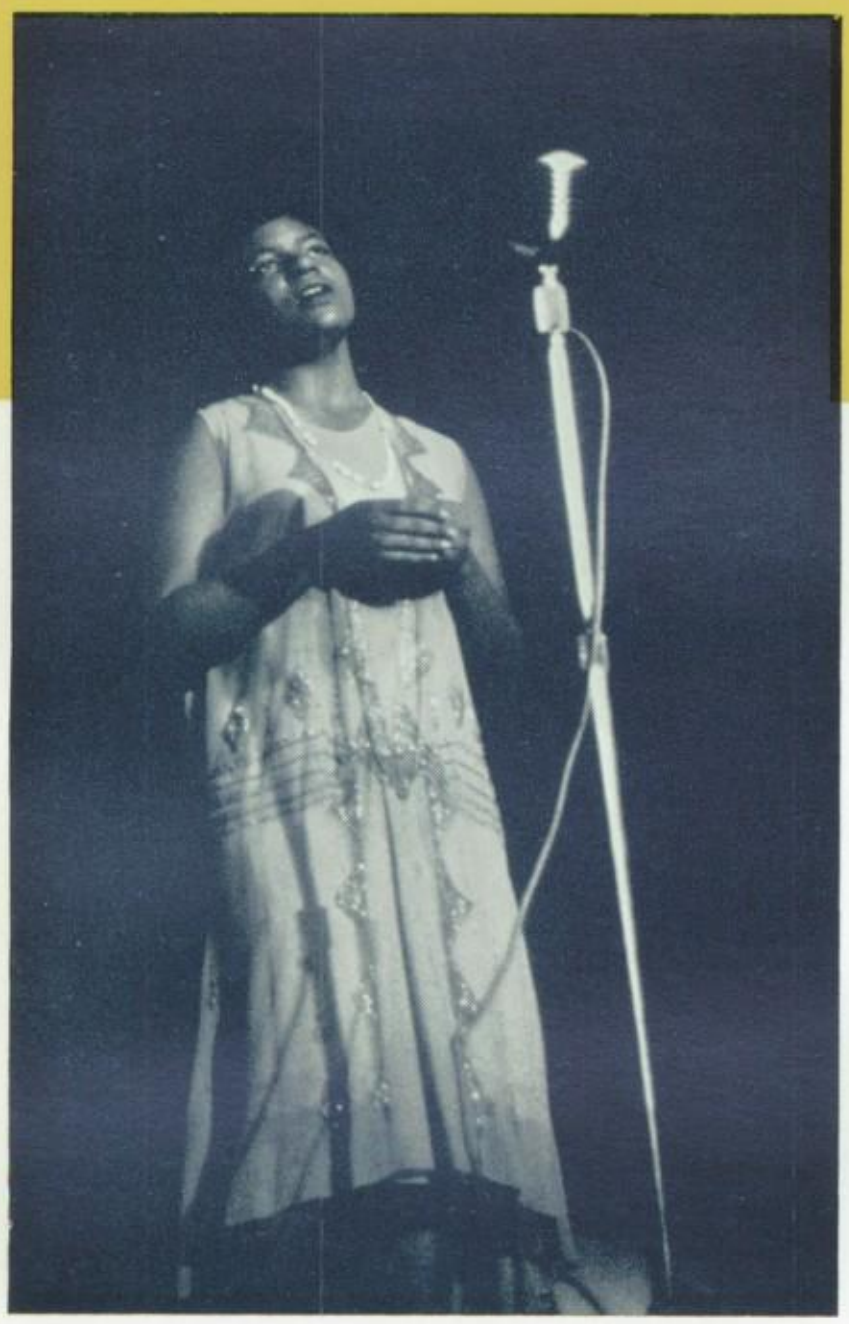
New friends . . .

We find, when we arrive within these walls, an opportunity, scarce found elsewhere, to develop associations. The diverse personalities housed within these walls prompt us to establish values by which our classmates are refined into friends. Within these walls we find, when we arrive, not only reflections of ourselves, but those to whom we look for a challenge and an opportunity by which we may extend our vision; these, too, we measure and seek out and call our friends. Our life within these walls is of short duration but within its scope we run the gamut of experiences afforded us in this process of preparing ourselves for a complete life. With this firmament we attempt to formulate a new sense of values. Within these walls we seek out those who entertain our sentiments of esteem, our essentials of respect, and our warmth of affection, and we call them our friends.

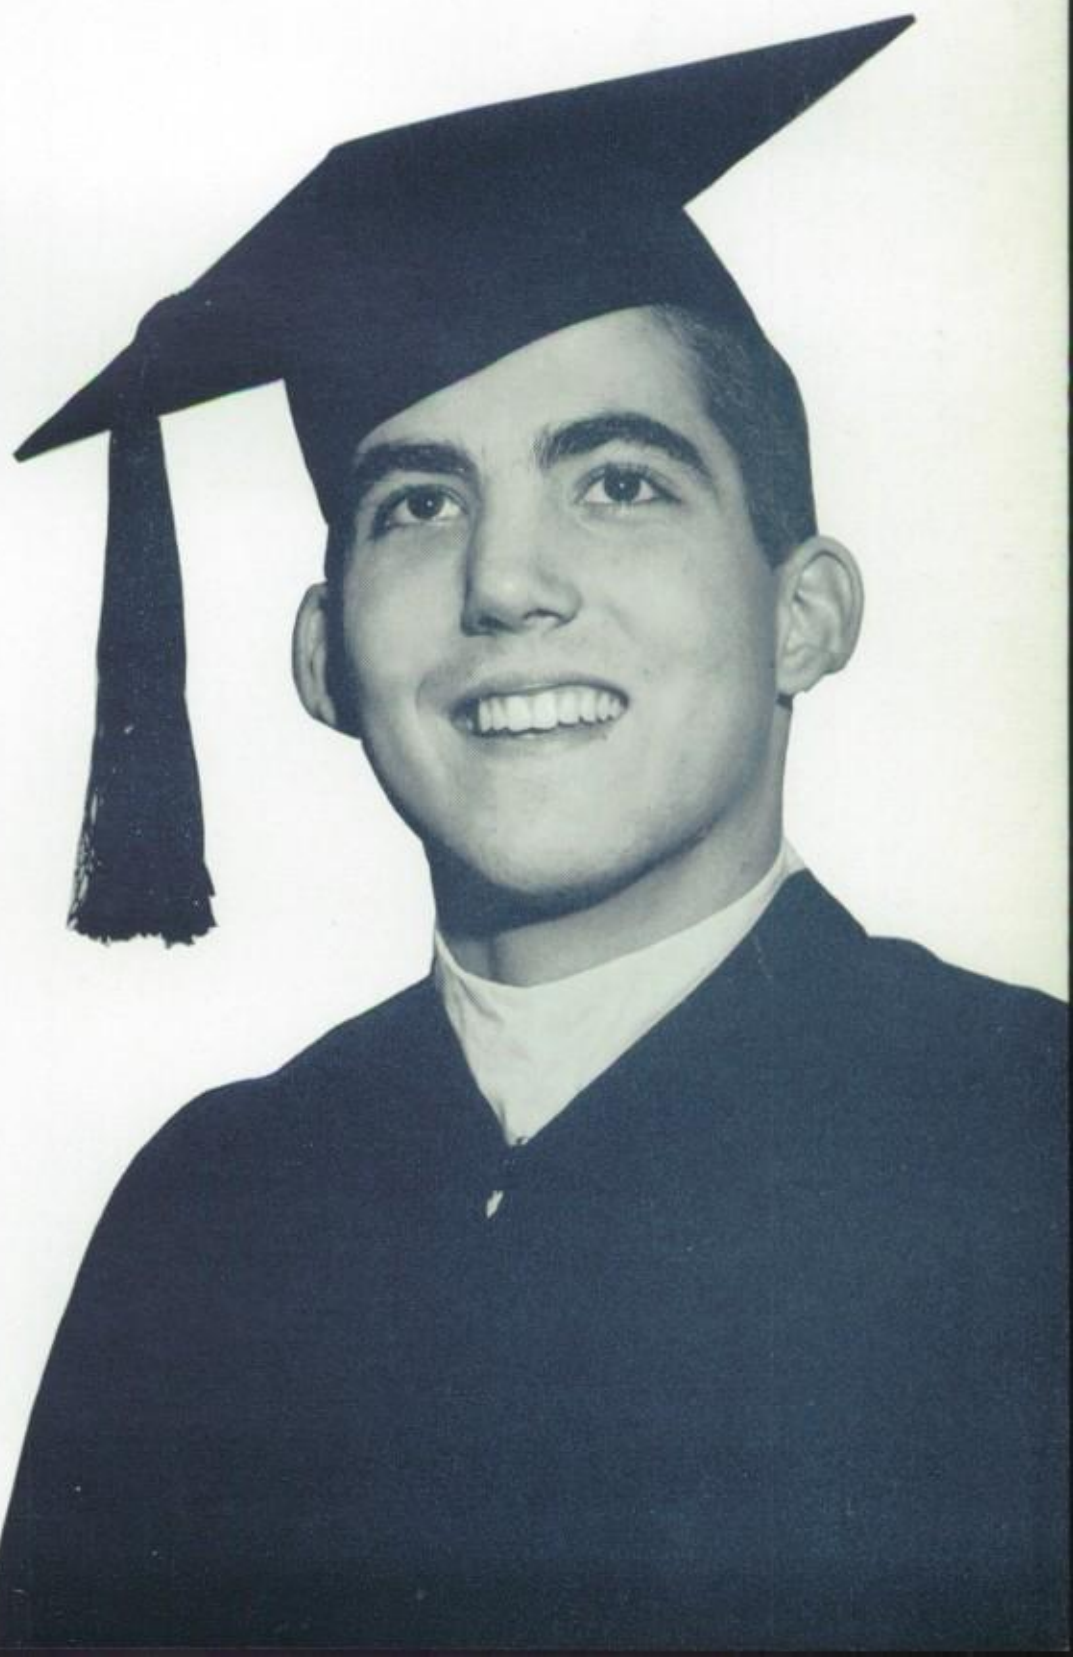
new sense of values .

Within these walls and with our friends we have the opportunity to establish new values. In addition to the practicalities of living, we can become more acutely aware of the esthetic properties of life. For a new sense of values we can concern ourselves with articulate communication, an assimilation of the humanities and the adoption of altruistic motives. Within these walls we can endeavor to metamorphose from a structural social matrix to a fluent intersubjectivity, with the ability to configurate by not responding to established and arbitrary stimuli. With the establishment of this new sense of values, within these walls, and in the company of our new friends, we can envisage new unopposed spheres of activity to arouse observation, interpretation, and integration.

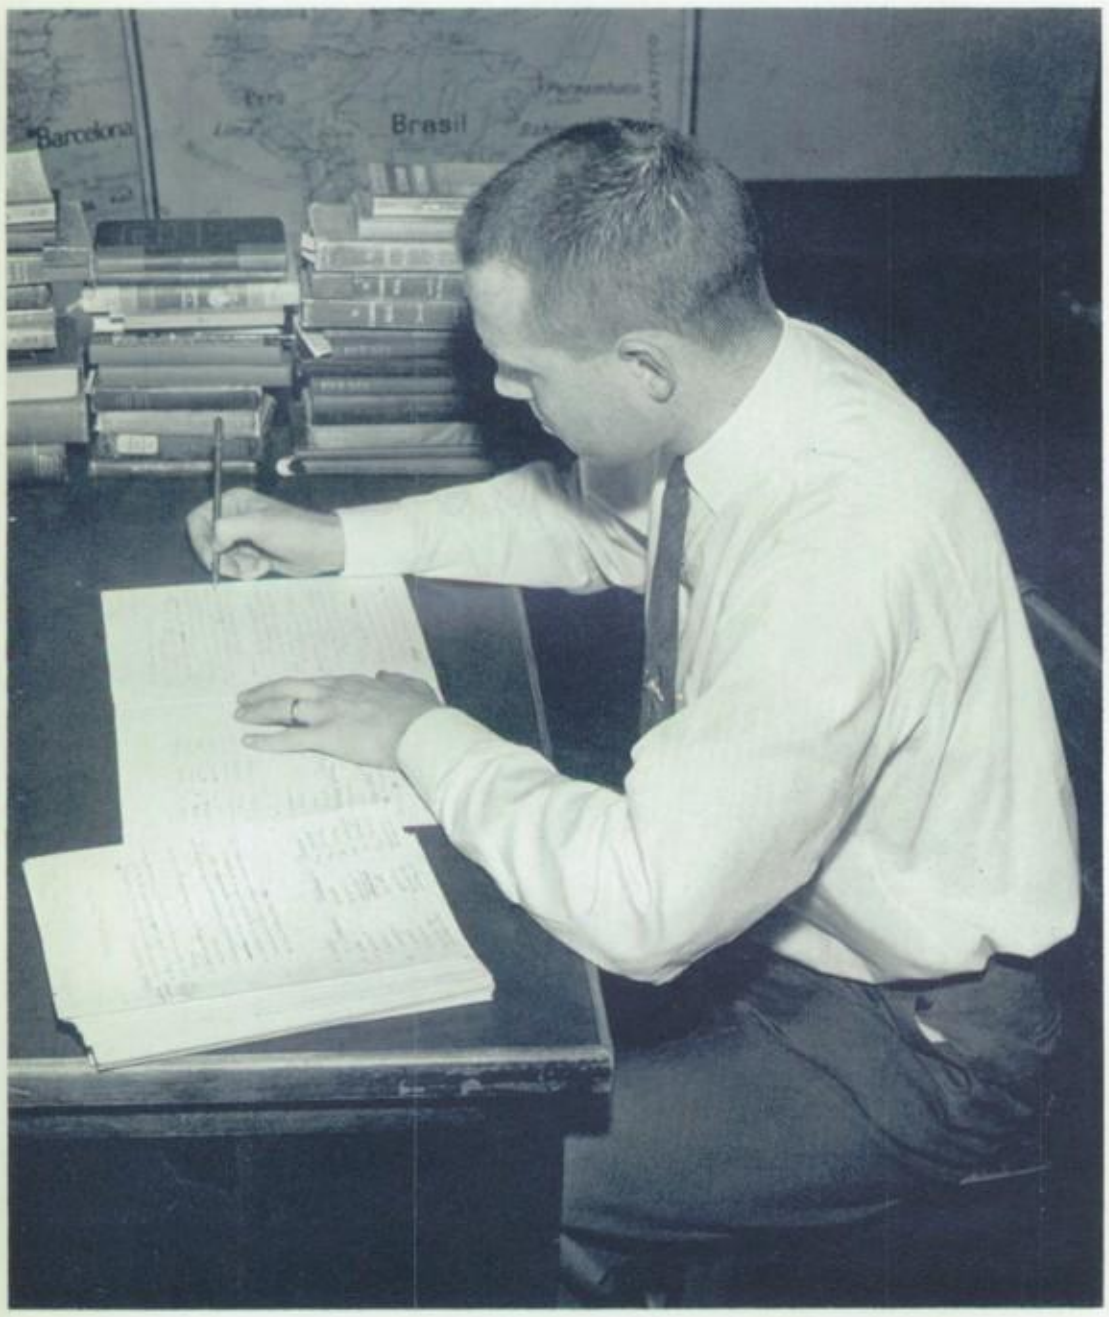
. . . new opportunities



Within these walls our new friends and our new sense of values can lead us to new opportunities. Not only opportunities to acquire new study skills for coping with the classical curriculum but also opportunities to experience the intercourse of abstract communication evolving from the Humanities.
The culminating sense of disciplined areas of study without concomitant aims precludes the opportunity to integrate but this opportunity exists in an environment of the liberal arts, provided however, that the school community recognizes and accepts this possibility. Walnut Hills establishes the basis for the acquisition of a new sense of values, it provides the impetus to acquire new friends, and fortifies its learned with the potential and the insight to avail themselves of the new opportunities which they will encounter here and afield.



Our Administration, Faculty and Curriculum



The teachers comprising the faculty at Walnut Hills have come to us from all parts of the country. Each teacher possesses a sincere interest in the student as well as his subject. Working under the principal, the teachers form the bridge between students and the administration.

SPRAY

Mr. Mechem, Principal

In his three years at Walnut Hills our principal, Mr. Richard W. Mechem, has proved to be an able administrator, a sincere friend to the students and faculty, and a leader in tackling the educational problems of our times. He wanted the Walnut Hills student first and foremost to learn to think —to understand and be able to cope with the many situations that every citizen must face. Mr. Mechem would like to see teachers, students, and school administration have more independence in experimenting with new educational methods. He felt that this would be to the benefit of all. Under the leadership of our principal, senior and junior student councils and senior class officers have been given more responsibility and power. Walnut Hills has students with extremely varied backgrounds, and Mr. Mechem succeeded in the difficult task of improving unity among teachers and students and the student body itself. He took an active interest in sports events, and by attending every game promoted school unity and spirit. He wished to see more participation as well as larger turnouts for these games. Walnut Hills students are indeed fortunate to have such a capable and interested principal.

At the close of the day, Mr. Mechem chats outside of his office with Mrs. Troeger.

Mr. Mechem and Miss Logan discuss lower school activities.

Mr. Luedeke, Our Counselors and The Administrative Staff

MR. LUEDEKE

As assistant principal, Mr. Howard L. Luedeke took care of the details and mechanics that kept Walnut Hills running smoothly. Attendance and discipline were his biggest jobs, but he also managed the supply store, and helped choose the assembly programs. Mr. Luedeke's able management of his responsibilities have earned the respect of students and teachers alike.

Mr. Luedeke totals school's monthly attendance

In order to carry out the office of assistant principal as ably as he did, it was necessary for Mr. Luedeke to be one of the busiest people around Walnut Hills. His main job of supervising attendance and student discipline was quite a demanding one, but his many other smaller responsibilities contributed to making the day too short for him. Mr. Luedeke's schedule included general planning for carrying out the daily operation of our school, which involved taking care of countless details in connection with this. He was also in charge of the supply store and had supervision of instruction at Walnut Hills.

Having been assistant principal for many years, he would like to see the school keep its high standards of the past. The teachers and students alike benefit all the time from the results of all the work that is carried out by Mr. Luedeke.

Our Curriculum in Practice

LATIN AND MODERN LANGUAGE

With the increasing amount of emphasis placed on international affairs today, the study and the knowledge of a foreign language have become extremely important. Walnut Hills is one of the few schools which has a six-year Latin course, three years of which are compulsory. After three years a student may continue, or may take a modern language—German, French or Spanish. The history and customs of the various countries are offered along with the vocabulary and grammar of the languages.

ENGLISH

English, an essential in the curriculum and for use in study, is stressed at Walnut Hills. The skill of composition, grammar proficiency and reading comprehension are all emphasized. A six-year course is compulsory, as English is used in all other subjects. Emphasis is placed on literature and reading comprehension. Outstanding students are eligible to take a three-year Advanced Standing Course. Through this study students are able to use English more effectively in everyday life.

A lilting as well as a profound presentation of French demands interest and attention from Mr. Wilson's students.

HISTORY

History aids us in connecting the past with the present. By understanding the problems and events of the past, one is able to better understand the happenings of today. Lower school students study America's history and the Western Hemisphere. Two years of history are required in the Senior High. One may take Modern, Ancient and Medieval, and American History. Many also take Economics and Sociology. History helps students to become better citizens.

TWO AND A HALF PERIOD SUBJECTS

The institution of having certain classes for two and a half periods a week has been found to be an interesting and successful method of teaching those subjects not considered part of the basic foundation of education and of giving the students a broader background for future studies. All lower school art and music classes, and some senior high classes in the same subjects, are taught on this schedule; the entire physical education program is also carried out by this plan.

Skills are encouraged for enhancing the presentation of the academic program.

Chemistry students put principle to practice

SCIENCE CLASSES

With the modern world's becoming more and more scientific, the science classes at Walnut Hills have been raised from their former subordinate position to one of primary importance. In the last few years one of the graduation requirements has been one of the two physical sciences, chemistry or physics; biology is also required in the freshman year. Part of the time of each course is spent in the laboratory where the students can watch the facts they have learned in action.

Expert guidance helps our students learn about themselves.

Walnut Hills' Students

These are the students of Walnut Hills High School. From the Effies through the Seniors, each of them gives a part of himself and in return, receives something from the school. Through this exchange between the individual and the whole, the students gain the necessary educational background for their lives.

Walnut Hills' Senior Class Members

The graduation of this year's senior class was a milestone in 311 lives. Each member can remember the feeling of inferiority of his Junior High years. But, under Mr. Lloyd Bailey's guidance and through class parties and projects, the class gained the unity shown in "the best Peanuts ever." The whole school remembers the class of '60's final year, highlighted by the Senior Play, the B. A. Prom, and their unique version of Baby-Day. As proof of their scholastic ability, the senior class contributed eighteen names to the list of National Merit Scholarship finalists. Their six years, filled with fun and learning, formed a basic education for the graduated class.

Walnut Hills' Sophomore Class Officers

MR. PETER STITES

Walnut Hills' Sophomore Class Members

This year, their first as upperclassmen, the Sophomores were busy with many activities. Such subjects as modern languages, Advanced Standing Courses, and A Capella Choir were open to them for the first time. They took part in upper-school sports and clubs and in pledging social clubs.

Under the guidance of Mr. Peter Stites, the Sophomore class carried out projects benefiting themselves and the whole school. They published a directory containing the names, addresses, and phone numbers of all Sophomores. Publicity for the Homecoming Dance was handled by the class. An open-house during basketball season and a class party were the social affairs presented by the Sophomores.

Walnut Hills' Freshman Class Officers

MISS BEVERLY LOGAN, Lower School Counselor

Walnut Hills' Freshman Class Members

The principal duty of this year's freshman class was to lead the Junior High. The class of '63, however, assumed many of the responsibilities and, accordingly, received many of the privileges. Early in the fall all Freshmen sprouted their beanies, visible proof of the success of this annual sale. The class party, the Stardust Swing, was held in February and was another sign of the capability and spirit of unity of the freshmen. Because the members of the class were considered part of the lower school, class officers were not elected, nor was an advisor appointed, until the end of the year.

Walnut Hills' Lower School Leaders

The Junior High at Walnut Hills is a place of change. With the help of Miss Logan, the lower school counselor, the bewilderment of the Effies soon changes to interest in their new lines; the strangeness of the school has worn off by the time the Effies become E-flats, and they are glad no longer to be considered the youngest. The freshmen accept their roles of rulers by holding most of the responsible positions and wearing their freshmen beanies as a symbol of their power.

Walnut Hills' Co-curricular Activities

As the need for varied interests grows, the student may find himself involved in several co-curricular activities. These instructive and social organizations differ in size as well as topical ranges. They provide an outlet for the student after school and offer invaluable knowledge of working with other people.

Upper School Student Council

Under Mr. Giaccometti's patient guidance and Jack Rubenstein's capable leadership, Student Council moved appreciably closer to its goal of being both effective and a truly representative group of the student body.

The student observer program was adopted so that the constituents of council, the student body, could observe, suggest, and criticize their representatives. Due to its larger facilities council was also able to accomodate any visitors who wished to attend a meeting. Student Council can indeed look back with pride on a successful and progressive year.

Seated: N. Felson. Standing: J. Rubenstein, J. Moore, C. Steiner, S. Roy, S. Fabing.

Much credit was owed to Steve Katona for his efforts to provide students with inexpensive and worthwhile social functions. The highlight of the fall season was a well-attended open house which cost only ten cents. This was "followed up" by the Homecoming Dance which was a financial success for the first time. An American Field Service dance rounded out the year with an international sock hop. The social committee took great pride in centralizing the social life of our school and erasing cliques.

Student Council, the theories of democracy in practice, was supplemented this year by an observer program which allowed other students to view Council's procedure. Of its many projects, including the annual picture sale and the Homecoming dance, the most important was the iniation of the exchange student plan. Another project was the raising of soap for Laos.

Upper School Judiciary Body

Just as the Student Council is the legislative body of the school's government, so is the Student Court the judiciary branch. Its purpose is to enforce the rules by punishing any offender turned in by members of Student Council or Court. For the breaking of minor rules, offenders are asked to do constructive tasks such as cleaning up the school grounds or writing essays corresponding to the offense. For a major infraction such as smoking, the parents and Mr. Luedeke are both notified.

Big Brothers and Sisters to Lower School

Among the oldest and most useful organizations at Walnut Hills are the Big Brothers and Big Sisters. The purpose of both these groups is to acquaint new boys and girls entering Walnut Hills with the school itself, its rules, and traditions. Their first duty in this endeavor is to guide the new "little brothers and sisters" through the building and to familiarize them with their new classrooms. This is done early in the fall before school is opened for classes. After the initial introduction to Walnut Hills, the Big Brothers and Big Sisters groups, schedule, for the remaining part of the year includes fall parties at which figure heads of the school are introduced and speak, a basketball game, and finally a spring activity, usually a track meet. Each big brother and big sister has the important responsibility of maintaining a close contact with his or her new seventh graders throughout the school year. For this reason the candidates for these groups are carefully screened by faculty members and advisers before membership is granted. To be eligible for this activity a boy must be in the eleventh or twelfth grades and a girl must be a senior.

The Remembrancer

This year the REMEMBRANCER was enhanced by its eye-catching "new-blue" print, a larger Faculty at Home section, more color, a greater class section, and more junior high coverage.

Beginning in September the head of the Literary Staff assigned weekly articles to supplement the activity pictures, while the advertising, typing, make-up, and art staffs worked day after day to produce the annual so deeply appreciated by students attending Walnut Hills and those who have already been graduated.

The purpose of the REMEMBRANCER was not only to identify the students but to record their interests in various extra-curricular activities. At the end of the year the excitement stimulated by the distribution of the REMEMBRANCER echoed through the halls as the past months of school fun and work became history.

The REMEMBRANCER offered opportunities for students to learn the mechanics of putting together a publication, to improve their literary and artistic skills, to practice persuasiveness while selling advertisements, and most important to support their school by working for it.

Chatterbox rechecks layouts for pleasing visual composition

Typing staff speed along to meet the demands of anticipating recipients.

Students who wanted to learn what was going on around school found that a good way to do so was to subscribe to the school newspaper, the "Chatterbox." Coverage of school news and scoops, plus interviews of important people appeared on page one. The editorial column of the feature page voiced the paper's stand and platform. Creative writing by the students and student sketches were also published. Open letters to the editors were especially encouraged. Sports fans could find accounts of the Eagles' latest encounters on the sports page, while girls' athletics were also covered. Lower school news was featured on the fourth page in the Wee Wheels and Small Talk columns.

The "Chatterbox" was put together every Thursday night under the leadership of the editors, Sue Fabing and Don Simmons. Mr. Alexander Glesen, the faculty advisor, also lent his assistance. Members of the various staffs gained journalistic experience through their work on the paper.

Highpoints of the "C-Box" year were the Exam Blues Open House and the Spring Banquet, where the new staff heads were announced.

The Gleam

"Gleam" Editor, Bill Strauss, and Advisor Mrs. McCammon.

"Gleam" respects and enjoys articles submitted to literary staff Bill Strauss and Mrs. McCammon discuss fundamentals behind the "Gleam."

Above: Bill Strauss, Editor, and Mrs. McCammon, Advisor, discuss construction of the "Gleam." Below: A brief but important staff meeting comes to an end.

"The Gleam," Walnut Hills' oldest literary production, gives the students an outlet for their creative aspirations. It also allows other students to view the works, both literary and artistic, of their cohorts. "The Gleam" was founded soon after the school itself and, due to the meritorious efforts of those who contribute, has always been well received by both the students and faculty. A rewarding innovation this past year was the short story contest. Entries in the contest were copious, though their quality was not diminished by their quantity. In recent years art work has assumed a more prominent position in an habitually literary magazine. Not only have the endeavors of the art-minded students embellished the stories, poems, and essays, but entire pages have been devoted to pictures, abstract designs, and other renderings of the artist's imagination. The creations of the artist, when in conjunction with the literary compositions, will further the interpretation in the mind of the reader. Although it has been considered that "The Gleam" accept only upper school work, the editors feel that the labors of the lower school, when of corresponding quality, should be coupled with that of the older students to give the magazine a universal appeal.

Cum Laude

In keeping with its high academic standards, Walnut Hills has always had representatives to Cum Laude, the national scholastic honor society. At the beginning of the second semester, the first group of students were given their pins by Miss Rosemary Hope, secretary of the Walnut Hills Cum Laude Society. These students had maintained a major subject average of 3.75 from their freshman year through the first semester of their senior year. At the end of the fifth grading period, the ceremony was repeated. This time the honor was bestowed on those students who had maintained a 3.5 high school average. These students had fulfilled the school's motto: Sursum ad Summum—Rise to the Highest.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll, as the name implies, is for those students who have done outstanding work on a school publication while maintaining a high grade level. More specifically, Quill and Scroll, the national high school journalistic society, granted membership to students who had served with distinction on either the "Chatterbox," "Gleam," or REMEMBRANCER. A 3.0 scholastic requirement kept admittance to Quill and Scroll limited and select. Quill and Scroll was open to both junior and seniors. Choices for membership were made at the mid-year and at the close of the year. Members were entitled to a special Quill and Scroll pin, as well as a subscription to the bi-monthly magazine.

Debate Club

The effort of the members of this year's Debate Club was crowned by the winning of the Mariemont Tourney, a competition held in the spring for all the debating teams of the Cincinnati high schools. The Walnut Hills Senior high club was made up of three teams, the first of which participated in the inter-school or inter-city meets. The second and third ranking groups debated among themselves, as does the entire Junior high club, to gain practice and experience. Each team was made up of a negative and an affirmative side. The topic for the Cincinnati District was "Resolved: The U.S. government should adopt compulsory arbitration for all basic industry."

Current History Club

The Current History Club at Walnut Hills allowed the students to relate the business and foreign affairs worlds with their own personal lives. The success of the club was shown through this year's increase of membership and interest. Through speakers such as Mr. Fred Sweet, the members discovered the conditions which caused strikes and how they were remedied. Another discussion meeting dealt with business ethics in our modern world. The Current History Club provided the whole school with an assembly speaker who explained the problems created by Africa's rapid civilization. The club is actually a junior division of the Council on World Affairs and receives many of the benefits and privileges of the larger organization.

Latin Club

The Latin Club, presided over by Martha Reuss and advised by Miss Laura Riffe was open to all upper school students of Latin. The club provided an opportunity for them to explore interesting subjects in the many fields relating to the study of the classics. Through various programs, Latin Club members supplemented their readings in Cicero, Ovid and Virgil to learn about life in the classical period. One of the most interesting programs of the year was a lecture by a classics professor at the University of Cincinnati who showed slides of archaeological excavations in Greece. The members of the club also enjoyed a party at Christmas and the annual spring picnic.

German Club

The objective of German Club, under the supervision of Miss Martha Kitzman, was to enrich the student's knowledge and appreciation of German culture. Accent was on spirit, beliefs, ideals, and everyday life of Germany, yesterday and today. Several speakers were invited to the club throughout the year to describe various aspects of Germany and its people. Music is a great part of a people's culture, and therefore favorite German songs were sung, always with great enthusiasm, especially at the annual Christmas party, with its ever beautiful "Tannenbaum." As in past years, German club ended another memorable year with its always popular picnic.

Opera Club

The music lovers of Walnut Hills this year found a new outlet for their interest in the Opera Club. Consisting of about ten people, the club met every two weeks under the supervision of Mr. Barron Wilson. The Opera Club was fortunate to have among its members one of the constituents of the Summer Opera chorus. The members discussed the works to be given by the Cincinnati Summer Opera Association this summer. Recordings of Carmen, Aida, Macbeth, La Boheme, Somnambula, Madame Butterfly and La Traviata accompanied lectures concerning these operas. The primary purpose of the club was to allow the members to become familiar with the music and plots of famous operas.

Le Cercle Francais

This year the French Club was the most active of the language organizations. Working in conjunction with the French department, the members initiated a tax stamp drive in which the French students took part. The rewards were copious and allowed the students to enjoy such things as two phonographs and accompanying French records, several film strips, and some prints of important French artists which were placed in the library. The several meetings of the organization were highlighted by a lecture given by Dr. Brigham of the University of Cincinnati, a discussion of teenagers in France led by an exchange student, and an introduction to travel in France by a gentleman from Air France Airlines.

Rock and Mineral Club

With Miss Joyce Ewald as their advisor, the Walnut Hills Rock and Mineral Club met twice a month to examine and trade their private possessions and to contribute to a club collection which was exhibited in the library. The members also took field trips and invited speakers to their meetings.

Spanish Club

Amidst shouts of "Ole" and "Bravo," "Los Conquistadores" of Walnut Hills met the fourth Wednesday of each month in the Home Ec Room where we planned to serve a genuine Mexican "Comida Picante" as the grand finale to our year of "Tertulias Espanolas."

At our meetings we heard from Pedro Portilla, a Christmas visitor from Mexico; Linda Glassman, Walnut Hills student who told us about her trip to Colombia; Mr. Charles Law, Walnut Hills Librarian with much knowledge of Mexico; and Tom Coates, Walnut Hills student who lived in Argentina last summer as an American Field Service student.

We enjoyed our meetings while learning about Spain and the Americas.

This year's officers were: presidente, Bill Moore; vice-presidente, Elena Mitchell; secretario, Marlin Warner; tesorero, Robin Gue; sargento, Tom Bettman. The advisor was Sr. Pedro Stites.

Chi Sigma Mu

The primary purpose of this year's Chemistry Club was to better the understanding of the relationship between the techniques practiced in industry and the facts taught in class. Under the able leadership of Mr. Jacob Skilken, the club held regular meetings, designed to give the members a greater insight into the science of chemistry. Speakers were invited from many fields to explain the different aspects of the science. The meetings were highlighted by demonstrations which would not ordinarily have been given in the classroom program. The topics of lecture and discussion included chrystallography, the science of the formation of crystals, the science of manufacturing synthetic detergents, and bio and nuclear chemistry.

Future Teachers of America

The forty students in F.T.A. this year performed many useful services under the leadership of Penny Daum, their president, and Mr. Meredith, their advisor. At meetings they heard speakers from the Board of Education and the University of Cincinnati. Members of F.T.A. tutored students, served as substitutes for teachers, and guides for school functions. The purpose of F.T.A. is to acquaint students with teaching and help them learn about new methods used in the field. To accomplish this purpose, members graded papers for teachers, visited other schools, and went to conventions. During National Education Week in November, the members had an opportunity to observe various Walnut Hills classes in session.

This year, under the guidance of Mrs. Fleming, the members of the Health Careers Club had interesting programs with movies and speakers on different Health professions. Members were given pins for twenty-five hours of volunteer work in a hospital and at Christmas, they collected clothes and toys for a needy family.

Radio Guild

Each Tuesday and Thursday one of the fifty Radio Guild announcers presented an original news broadcast. Chosen and supervised by Mr. Wayne Gregory, these students reported on all phases of current happenings in the world, in the nation, and at Walnut Hills. In February, Yvonne Kelley and Tom Dickman were chosen "best announcers" in the annual contest.

A Y-Teens meeting.

Among the most active groups of the school was the Hi-Y organization. It offered a wide variety of activities to both senior and junior boys. The group met twice a month, planning projects ranging from open houses to the work details at Camp Mechem in the spring. Throughout the year religious discussions were held and leaders of many faiths spoke. In addition to these activities Hi-Y members participated as a team in a basketball league composed of many of the Hi-Y chapters in the city.

Y-Teens

The Alpha chapter of the Hi-Y organization meets twice a month to hold a business meeting and hear a speaker of cultural or political interest. One of the high points of their year is the weekend retreat each spring to Camp Mechem. Here the members work preparing the camp for the flood of underprivileged children who enjoy it each summer. Also an important event is the Sports Banquet held each May to award the honor of Athlete of the Year.

Stage Crew

The stage crew, advised by Mr. Glenn Volz, did an extraordinary job during the past year. The members gave up their spare time to build production sets before a show, manipulate sets during the shows and assemblies and store them afterwards.

Scenery Painters

When the hustle and bustle of the Peanuts, Walnuts, or any other show, was through, and people were talking of its success, there was one factor which was not to be discounted. It was the scenery, which constituted many long hours of hard work by the scenery painters. Walnut Hills has always been privileged with fine scenery, and this year's scenery painters, under the leadership of Jenny Daily and Chris Hall, tried to keep up to the standards. These students, who did not necessarily have to be studying art, met on Friday night. The faculty advisor was Mr. Glen Volz.

Visual Aids Crew

The Visual Aids Crew, advised by Mr. Thomas E. Welsh, was responsible for the operation of all of the school's video and audio equipment, movie, slide, and opaque projectors as well as amplifiers, television receivers, and record players. The crew provided apparatus for class and social activities and was responsible for the maintenance of the public address system.

Radio Club

Advised by Mr. McNeal, this year's Radio Club operated a complete short wave broadcasting station in room 315. Of its twenty members seven were licensed "hams." For the benefit of those who still had to get their licenses, classes on Morse Code and Radio Theory were held regularly in preparation for the Federal Communication Commission Examinations.

Fencing Club

The fecing club is unique both at Walnut Hills and in Cincinnati, being the only club of the kind in the city. The members provide their own equipment and learn the various styles of fencing under the guidance of Mr. Peets.

Stamp Club

The purpose of the Stamp Club is to stimulate an interest in stamp collecting among its members. Under the direction of Mr. Paul Ahlert, students were given a chance to buy new stamps, trade with each other, and participate in interesting discussions. The members, primarily boys and girls in grades seven through nine, were occasionally entertained by speakers. The first part of each meeting was set aside for business affairs, while the second part was devoted to trading. Dues were collected to buy new stamps. In these ways stamp collecting was made more enjoyable and more meaningful for all members.

Rocket Club

Mr. Bourne advised the Rocket Club while Paul Rubin lead it as president, and many interesting discussions were provided during the school year. In addition, Rocket Club furthered the knowledge and interest of its members as future scientists.

Visiting speakers included men from General Electric and the University of Cincinnati.

Tropical Fish Club

The Tropical Fish Club was one of the most active clubs at school this year. Using the available aquatic equipment, the Tro-pi-so, an abbreviation of the club's name in Latin, discussed the world of fish. Under the able supervision of Mr. Paul Ahlert, the ichthyologists profitted fully from their experiences in this club.

Supply Store Proprietors

A very important function at Walnut Hills was the supply store. Under the supervision of Mr. Howard Luedeke, and under the direction of Dick Holt, the store provided the students with all the supplies needed. Most of the profits went to the Assistant Principal's fund.

Voluntary Library Assistants

The duties of the twenty-six library workers were many and varied. These students helped at the check-out desk, looked up references in the stacks, mended torn books, made out book cards, and assisted other pupils in locating research material. They were a valuable asset to the librarians and to everyone at Walnut Hills.

Lunchroom Helpers

Making the lunch hour as efficient as possible was this year's capable staff of lunchroom workers, supervised by Mrs. Mahaffey. The sixteen adults, who undertook the tasks of cooking and serving, were aided by students who performed the jobs of food carriers, cashiers, and all-round handy men. The staff deserves much credit for doing a difficult job carefully.

The Interfratority Council, which was presided over by Dick Holt and was advised by Mr. Raymond Farnham, was composed of the presidents of each of Walnut Hills' fifteen social clubs. The Council met once a month during school time. Its chief function was to make decisions regarding rules not already passed by the administration and by Mr. Farnham. The Interfratority Council discussed the policy of the social clubs in respect to rushing and to pledging of new members. It made the rules governing the inter-club contests in baseball and basketball, the Interfratority Sing, and the Interfratority Scholarship Competition. The Council, in accordance with Student Council and with other organizations, contributed a large sum of money to the American Field Service Program. The Interfratority Council was a valuable means of uniting the school's several social clubs and of allowing them to cooperate with each other and with the school faculty and administration.

The Altruist Social Club is made up of girls devoted to their family, friends, school, and community. The name of the club states its motto and objective—altruism: unselfish regard for the interests and desires of others. Every month the sorority participated in a philanthropic project such as soliciting for UNICEF, entertaining people at the Clovernook Home for the Blind, and visiting the children's orphanage. Our varied social activities included picnics, date parties, stags, the traditional winter formal with Pi Kappa Epsilon and Tau Delta Tau, and the equally traditional spring dance with Gamma Kappa. The group also enjoyed participating in Interfratority sports including basketball and baseball and the singing competition. Through these activities—philanthropic, social, and competitive, Altruist has strived to develop, by fellowship, the character and interests of each member and to kindle within the entire group the spirit and feelings which keep enthusiasm for the sorority alive.

In 1932 seven girls began a sorority known as Chi Sigma Delta. They were a group working for charity and to further close friendships and these goals have continued through the years. Each of the Greek letters symbolizes something and upon formal initiation the members learn their meaning. Chi Sig's major project is a Charity Dance where each sorority and fraternity represents a charity and the money is distributed proportionally to all charities with a larger percentage to the winning charity. During the year philanthropic work such as sending pipe cleaner candy animals to Children's Hospital, and a trip to the Emmanuel Community Center is done by the girls. For enjoyment mixed with work the girls plan a winter and spring formal and a casual summer party along with stags, bake sales, and open houses throughout the year. It is the working together that provides the close friendships, successful projects and high spirit in the sorority.

In word as well as deed, "Friendship, loyalty, and good sportsmanship" could well be considered the motto of Gamma Kappa. It was formed under the national association of high school girls' as Sigma Omega Pi. However, as the years passed, the Cincinnati chapter decided to function as an independent group and assumed the title of Gamma Kappa.

One objective of Gamma Kappa is maintaining an active philantropic program, which this year consisted of volunteer work at the Jewish Hospital, a tax stamp collection for a nursing scholarship, and supplying a needy family with a Christmas dinner.

Gamma Kappa offered a variety of social activities to its members. A Winter Formal, a Spring Affair, a Summer Formal with Altruist, stags and open houses were given annually. In 1955, Gamma Kappa joined with Phi Epsilon Fraternity to present the Mardi Gras, and an open house with the candidates from Walnut Hills' and Woodward's social clubs.

Philotas means "friendship" and our primary purpose is to provide fun for our members. Numerous date parties and stags offered entertainment throughout the year. Our traditions included the Christmas formal with T. D. T. and A. X. D. and our spring formal where our newly elected officers are installed at midnight. The "Missing Link," a yearly magazine published by the Juniors, presented Senior and Sophomore sketches and recalled the many events of the past year. This publication highlighted the end of the year.

A secondary purpose is to perform philanthropic work which could not be accomplished on an individual basis. At least one philanthropic project was undertaken each semester. At Christmas we went to Allen House and Children's Hospital where we decorated Christmas trees. Other times we visited old folks' homes.

Our Mothers Club is very active and is largely responsible for our many varied activities. Their unselfish assistance is invaluable during rushing.

Sigma Theta Pi at Walnut Hills is the Delta chapter of a national sorority founded in 1908. Every December the members celebrate Founder's Day. Last summer representatives from seventeen other chapters in the U. S. and Canada came to Cincinnati for a conclave. S.T.P. held two major social functions at Walnut Hills last year. The first was the Presidential Ball given in October; the second was the STP-BOA Post Review Dance after the Walnuts. S.T.P.'s candidates won the queenship of both Phi Ep's Mardi Gras and the A.Z.A. Sweetheart Formals. One unique affair the members gave was a Sadie Hawkins Day party patterned after that day in L'il Abner. Formals were also held in the winter and spring. S.T.P.'s philanthropic projects were primarily centered around working in the Jewish Hospital; the organization also helped sell Easter lilies and worked as a group at a temple carnival. S.T.P. enjoyed playing in both the basketball and baseball tournaments.

Tau Delta Tau is a sorority built on the ideals of citizenship, sportsmanship, and friendship. Through monthly philanthropic projects, helping wray Christmas presents for the orphanage for example, the members fulfilled their desire to help their fellow man. This year T.D.T. undertook a project of a new nature: the foster-parenthood of a seven-year-old Korean boy. The qualities of sportsmanship are portrayed each year in our participation in the interfratority contests. For the past four years, T.D.T. has won the intersorority basketball tournament. All the time of the members has not been spent winning trophies, however. Last December the sorority co-sponsored the annual Christmas formal. Throughout the year stags, date-parties, and hayrides provided part of the social life of the members of the club. Through the three phases of the sorority—philanthropic, athletic, and social—we profit from our lives as members of Tau Delta Tau.

Alpha Delta Kappa is a well-rounded group of young men with diversified interests enjoying the bond of their fraternity. Respect for Alpha Delta Kappa, loyalty to its members, and concern for each other give each member a sense of pride in belonging.

Our main purpose, since we consider Alpha Delta Kappa a fraternity rather than a social club, is to create and promote a close fellowship with each other. Participation in fraternity parties, interfraternity athletics, and philanthropic projects results in this fellowship, leading to lasting friendships.

Alpha Delta Kappa is one of the few fraternities to have elections twice each year. This important tradition gives greater opportunity for leadership and service. Another important tradition is the presentation of our memorial pin to the member who has contributed most during the year.

Each ADK wears his pin with pride. It will always recall to him the years he spent in memorable companionship with his fraternity.

BOA, with colors green and gold, is Walnut Hills' third oldest fraternity. Founded in 1916, Beta Omicron Alpha even received a charter from the state during the time when social clubs were banned. Always conforming to the rules of the school, BOA stirves for a strong unity by doing the right thing. There are two other chapters of BOA, one at Country Day, the other at Indian Hill. The club gives one closed date party each month. These range from a picnic in the fall to an elaborate New Year's Eve party and an end of the year swimming party. Once every two months the boys enjoy a stag and four times a year they further brotherhood by participating in philanthropic projects. The members of BOA also enjoy athletics and take an active part in interfrat sports. Through good sportsmanship and able organization, the BOA club is building strong men.

The oldest fraternity in Cincinnati, Delta Beta, is steeped in traditions that have endured sixty-four years and two world wars. Its customs and rituals have been part of the fraternity since its founding in 1896. Guided by its advisor, Mr. Albrecht Leue, the Walnut Hills Chapter strengthened its ties with its brothers at Wyoming, Woodward, and Country Day, by giving a city-wide dance last fall. The regular social season includes one date party and one stag each month. D.B. tries to strengthen the individual by teaching self-respect, leadership, and, above all, brotherhood. Many of its members are active in Walnut Hills athletics, publications, productions, and clubs. Members are also encouraged to keep up with their studies, even if it means cutting down on participation in fraternity activities. Rounding out the fraternity's program are the philanthropic projects, in which D.B. participates twice a year, and the annual reunion of all four chapters at Brown County, Indiana.

Still in its infancy, ODK Fraternity has come a long way since its formation a year ago. Founded to create unity, ODK has encountered and successfully overcome the obstacles that might have prevented its establishment. ODK, whose colors are blue and gray, is now the smallest, but one of the strongest, social clubs at Walnut Hills. Its members have individually and jointly brought fame and glory to ODK.

In time, ODK hopes to be recognized as one of the top social clubs in Walnut Hills. More important to its members now, however, are improvement of the club, participation in more social activities and philanthropic projects, development of brotherhood and loyalty, and co-operation.

Even though ODK realizes the importance of harmonious, inter-racial relationships, we have succeeded in creating among ourselves a kindred spirit which, while it should not be the entire governing force of our views, should certainly exist.

Although it is one of the smallest fraternities at Walnut Hills, Phi Ep serves as an example of brotherhood to the rest of the organizations. One of the unique activities of the club was the giving of $1000 to the Jewish Community Center. This annual philanthropic project is carried out in memory of a former member of the fraternity. Sending aid to Jewish children orphaned in the Moroccan earthquake formed another of Phi Ep's projects. All was not work, however, for the fraternity and one of the Walnut Hills sororities co-sponsored the eighth annual Mardi Gras dance in February. The boys held a major affair set in the scene of the casinos at Monte Carlo and also enjoyed several minor dances and parties throughout the year. To display their athletic prowess, the members of Phi Ep fraternity took part in the football tournament held among the boys' social clubs last fall.

The stirring opening lines of the Phi Rho Delta Fraternity Song symbolize not only the driving spirit of the organization but also its unshakable unity. The fraternity's song opens with, "We sing our praises clear and loud, in one accord are we, of Phi Rho Delta we are proud and pledge our loyalty." This new energetic association was founded at the outbreak of the second World War in 19941 and has included in its list of activities philanthropic works and projects. Aside from its more serious side the young men enjoy themselves and the company of their friends by engaging in boat-rides, hayrides, stags and large parties, chief among which is the "Presidential Ball." The fraternity song crystalizes the manyfold reasons for association with the club, "Our high ideals, a beacon light, to guide good fellowship." Aside from entertainment, this fraternity is the proving ground for valuable experience in the fields of leadership and mutual cooperation.

Round Towners was founded twenty-eight years ago. Since its inception the membership has been characterized by the spirit of good fellowship and high scholastic attainment. Philanthropy, social affairs, and athletics were three main activities of R.T. In the field of philanthropy the members solicited for the heart fund and United Appeal, and contributed to the Jewis Welfare Fund. The R.T. social season was highlighted by the Christmas formal and a three-day weekend. Round Towners teams participated in all intra-fratority sports.

Round Towners added seventeen new members and completed a most successful rushing and pledging season. Graduated Round Towners always cherish their three years in the society and, as the opening words of the R.T. songs sa, "We will keep the friends we've made here."

The Scarab Society, second oldest social club at Walnut Hills, was organized in 1909. The club took as its insignia an Egyptian design of the Scarab beetle. Reorganized in 1957, Scarab kept its traditional insignia and now has a membership of nine.

This year Scarab has seen the advantages of keeping the club small. The members are all close friends. The small size of the group has made it easy to hold meetings and functions on short notice, whereas a larger group would not be able to get enough people together in such a short time. Furthermore, Scarab's size has made it easy to conduct meetings and successfully accomplish business undertakings.

During the year Scarab participated in the scholastic average contest, the Interfratority Sing, and the basketball tournament. As required by its constitution, Scarab spent several Saturdays doing volunteer work. During the Christmas holidays Scarab welcomed back old members at a homecoming party.

Sigma Delta Chi, one of Walnut Hills foremost fraternities, is well-known at Walnut Hills for its athletics, but social affairs and philanthropic work also occupy a major portion of its activities. All its athletic teams are respected for their skill and spirit.

Sigma has at least one social affair each month, usually closed parties with unusual themes, such as cupid parties and underwater watermelon feasts. The highlight of each year is the Sigma Sweetheart Dance, which was held for the 18th time this spring. Sigma also has a winter and spring weekend. These three-day affairs include alumni baseball, basketball, and football games, as well as stags, picnics, boatrides, ice skating parties, costume affairs, and dances.

The club's major philanthropic work, excluding solicitation for the United Appeal and Polio drive and hospital volunteer services, is the weekly delivering of braille typewriting equipment for the National Council of Jewish Women.

Walnut Hills' A-Capella Choir

The A Capella Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Nelle C. Murphy, was well known throughout Cincinnati. An honorary organization for vocal music, the A Capella Choir had manyfold purposes. Its members were afforded excellent opportunities to develop their voices and become acquainted with fine music. They gained poise and experience by appearing before school audiences as well as at civic functions held outside of Walnut Hills. In December the annual Christmas Concert was held. The A Capella Choir performed two Christmas Assemblies, one for homecoming collegiates and the upper school, the other for the lower school. Early in November the Choir sang for the First United Church. In May the Choir took a leading part in the Spring Concert. Choir members developed spirit and enthusiasm by participating in such activities as the picnic held in October and by attending a production of "Porgy and Bess' in November as a group. The A Capella Choir was an important part of Walnut Hills and a tradition of which all can be proud.

Judy Curfman sang "Gesu Bambino" during the annual Christmas Concert.

The A Capella Choir was a five-period subject for which one credit was given. It was under the able direction of Mrs. Nelle C. Murphy. Mrs. Murphy was assisted by the Choir Council, the governing body of choir, which was composed of five members elected by the choir.

From the A Capella Choir two separate music organizations were chosen, the Triple Trio and the Boys Octette. Ironically, the A Capella Choir was born of these two groups which met at lunch and after school. The Triple Trio and the Boys Octette soon developed into a two-period subject. They progressed into a four-period subject while under the direction of Doctor Biddle. Triple Trio and Boys Octette met separately one period a week and together three periods. It was not until 19954 that the A Capella Choir was formed as it stands today, known and loved by all.

A-Capella Choir's Triple Trio

The Girls' Triple Trio was a select group of vocalists. The qualifications necessary for membership included: excellent vocal ability, the capacity to blend in harmony with the group as a whole and general recognition in such outstanding groups as A Capella Choir. To the delight of attentive audiences the group performed at various school functions and civic affairs. Together with the Boys' Octette it carried on the tradition of singing "Twas the Night Before Christmas" at the annual Christmas Concert, enhancing the entire program.

The Octette and the Triple Trio

The combination of the Girls' Triple Trio and the Boys' Octette formed a unit which represented the A Capella Choir both at school and civic functions where a larger vocal group was not required. The members this past year sang at Knox Presbyterian Church and for the Women's Club of Hyde Park Community Church. Perhaps the most well-known of the Triple Trio-Octette presentations is their musical and dramatic rendition of "T'was the Night Before Christmas" given each year at the Christmas Concert.

Glee Club

The Walnut Hills Girls' Glee Club was a musical group for upper school girls who liked to sing and who had an interest in music. Being an optional course, it improved singing ability, conducting experience, and sight reading. Modern music was stressed in its curriculum this year. Glee Club joined with A Capella Choir for the annual Christmas Concert, and also sang in Spring Concert. Under the direction of Mrs. Nelle C. Murphy, Glee Club gave opportunities to appear in school functions, and developed musical appreciation.

Walnut Hills' High School Band

For several years the band of Walnut Hills has recognized their need for new uniforms. To this end they have worked through such fund-raising projects as the annual candy sale and various paper drives. The success of the band was shown to the school when many of the members marched gloriously arrayed in new uniforms of blue and gold at the football games last fall. The uniforms were rather expensive because each one was fitted to a particular player. One reason the band players worked so well together was that there were various social functions held throughout the year to promote a feeling of unity. This past year a party held at Christmas and a spaghetti dinner given by one of the members headed the list of affairs given by the band. The members were a self-governing organization; they elected a group of officers at the beginning of the year to act as a connecting link between the director Mr. Loar and the body of the band.

The system of learning music employed by the Walnut Hills band is unique in the city. Instead of the members receiving a certain composition and working on it until it is finished, the music is changed each week. Toward the end of the year, about a month before the Band Concert, the members chose from a list of all the music they have played those compositions which they most enjoyed. In this way, the players become familiar with a great quantity of music and still have certain pieces fully prepared for their concerts. The Band gives one private concert each spring to which admission is charged. They also play in the Spring Concert given by the entire music departments and, in the fall, represent the school as a marching band. This year Mr. Loar instituted a system whereby one player may challenge another for a better seat in the band. This practice encourages individual work as the better seats receive better parts.

Walnut Hills' High School Orchestra

A very important part of the Walnut Hills High School music department this year was the Orchestra. It was conducted by Mr. Edgar Loar and was composed of sixteen members. The upperschool members met every day, while the junior-high musicians attended class two and one periods a week. The Orchestra was made up entirely of stringed instruments, including violins, violas, cellos, and string basses. The Orchestra had a large repertoire which ranged from classical to popular and humorous music. Under the direction of Mr. Loar, it played, among other selections, the Finale from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, a novelty number entitled "Plink, Plank, Plunk," and the charming "Swiss Lullaby." This year the Orchestra did not have a council, as it had in the preceding years, to act as a governing body, but carried on its business as a group, advised by Mr. Loar. Walnut Hills was quite fortunate to have such a talented and devoted orchestra upon which to rely for the provision of music for various school funtions.

The Walnut Hills Orchestra provided an opportunity for its members to become more proficient on their respective instruments and served the school by playing in several school programs. In Orchestra, students gained appreciation for music and improved their technique by continued practice, both in class and in after-school rehearsals. In past years the Orchestra has given a program during a school assembly. This year, several members of the Orchestra joined the band to play in the Walnuts of 1960. They performed two numbers, "Curtain at Eight" and "Tropical Magic," and accompanied the Singing and Pony Choruses in "Blue Moon," "Tico, Tico," "South of the Border," and others. In June, the Class of 1960 marched down the aisle to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" rendered by the Walnut Hills Orchestra. Along with a few members of the band, the Orchestra performed one other number as part of the graduation exercises. In all these ways, the Orchestra benefitted not only its members but the entire student body.

Cheerleaders

Seen leading the Eagles team on to victory at each game this year were the Walnut Hills Cheerleaders. These spirited students helped to enliven the crowds and encourage the teams. The cheerleaders worked to develop their skill in performing old and new cheers. They presented these to the whole school in the pep rallies that were held during the year.

The devoted cheerleaders encouraged good sportsmanship on the part of students and were a symbol of school spirit. Several boys joined the cheerleading ranks for the first time in several years. Leading the cheering for the Varsity were the Senior High Cheerleaders, and cheering for the Reserve Team were Jr. High Cheerleaders.

Majorettes

Our skillful majorettes performed their routines as a highlight of half-time intermission during the football season. These eight girls were chosen by Mr. Edgar Loar, director of the Walnut Hills band, on their personality, precision, skill in twirling a baton, and ability to dance and march. Each girl was also required to play a musical instrument. The majorettes rehearsed with the band each day and received constant practice. This year, as a special feature, fire and flag batons were used. The majorettes also appeared in pep rallies, the Walnuts, parades, and other public functions. They were a major attraction to Walnut Hills presentations.

Major Barbara

On November twentieth and twenty-first the red curtain rose on Walnut Hill's production of "Major Barbara," a comedy by George Bernard Shaw. The senior class, guided by Mr. Wayne Gregory, worked two long months on their production, which was beautifully staged and lighted.

"Major Barbara" is the story of a Salvation Army girl whose father, Andrew Undershaft, is a cannon millionaire and whose dislike for her father's business morals overpowers her. Her family, ruled by Barbara's presumptious mother, Lady Britomart Undershaft, depends on their money from Andrew Undershaft, who has long since separated from his wife on "feneral" principles. Major Barbara and her long-estranged father are attracted to one another upon their first meeting. The rest of the play depicts the struggle between the two, each for the other's soul. Undershaft's principles rest upon fire and gunpowder; those of Barbara depend on pious poverty and soul "saving." In the end Major Barbara joins her father's cannon foundry to save souls and her fiance Adolphus Cusius becomes a partner in the firm of Undershaft and Lazarus, makers of "death and destruction." Thus Barbara casts off her title of Major and realizes that souls cannot be truly saved until their bodies are well fed and that pious poverty is a basic evil.

Class Play

This year's Junior Class production was "Life With Mother," a contemporary comedy written by Clarence Day. The basic plot was that Mother had been married for twenty-two years (to the star of "Life With Father") without having an engagement ring. The ring, at the time of the play, was by mistake, on the third finger of her neighbor's left hand. Mrs. Day demanded her ring as a twenty-second anniversary present and this request formed the action of the comedy. This excellent production was another way the Junior Class showed their unity and talent.

Peanuts was the most wonderful thing that could have happened to a Junior Class! It began as a money raising project for the Juniors, put together in two weeks. Due to its great success, the production became an annual event with a two-fold purpose: to aid Junior Class funds, and to draw the class closer together.

Each year the Peanuts are one of the highlights of the Junior year. From the first class meeting last May, through the summer sessions of script writing, and the tedious rehearsals in September, to the thrilling moment when the curtain rose on October 8th, the 1959 Peanuts taught our Juniors the spirit-bound meaning of responsibility, hard work and class unity.

Scenery is a big job and requires much time, as scenery painters well know.

The Walnuts is one of Walnut Hills' long standing traditions. The 1960 Walnuts cast of two-hundred people worked to uphold this tradition. They did everything from performing specialties to making up the cast and helping them with their costumes. Under Mr. Loar and Bud Fry the ever-present band did its usual job of being background. It backed up acts like Julie Shazvin's acrobatic ballet to "Bugler's Holiday" and "Tenderly" sung by Mathew Knott who also danced with Kassandra Leigh. Something exotic was added by Masako Sasaki's Japanese dance. Mrs. Murphy's singing chorus added beauty with songs like "Wishing Will Make It So" and color with "Tuo Tuo." Under the leadership of Lynn Blubaugh and Nancy Coplan, the pony chorus provided the show with the prettiest group of maids and janitors ever assembled. The Walnuts revealed what happened when Aunt Mamie went back to college. Debbie Dupee gave an excellent performance as she fell in love with professor Al Legro, played by Roger Dworkin. So on March 19, 1960, another link in the chain of Walnuts tradition was completed.

The Junior High Dramatics Club of this year prepared its members for great futures in Walnut Hills productions. Although only a few meetings were held, the avid Thespians enjoyed the experiences they gained in both readings and presentations. The realization of the social connotations presented by the culmination of writing and production was the primary purpose of the Dramatics Club.

Junior Latin Club

The Junior Latin Club began its season this year by dividing into six curiae or Roman families. Then the Junior High students belonging to the club started their interesting programs under the direction of Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Kessis.

Each curiae selected a name and a symbol for its group. An important event celebrated by all members was the Saturnalia. Other activities of the group included charades and dramatics. The purpose of this club was to represent Roman life and make it seem real.

Chess Club

Chess has been played for generations in America and elsewhere, and at Walnut Hills the traditional fun of chess was still very much alive. It was carried on by the Chess Club. Under the advisorship of Mr. Barron Wilson, the club played games among themselves each week after school. Mr. Wilson and the president, Glen Thobe, tried each week to correct the members' mistakes and to teach novice players how to play proficiently. It also played tournaments with other schools, and there were plans for an Intra-city League.

Chorus

The Junior Chorus, under the guidance and direction of Miss Janet Moore, has this year been divided into two sections: Junior Choir, a mixed group which sang three and four part music, and the Girls' Choir, singing two and three part harmony. Both these divisions were composed of seventh and eighth grade students. Junior Chorus was an extra-curricular activity; practices were held twice each week. The combined choirs held one Junior High assembly on their own and sang in the Senior High assemblies at Christmas and in the Spring.

Model Airplane Club

Mr. Paul Raffle this year became the faculty advisor to the Model Airplane Club which met every two weeks, not only to build models of airplanes, both modern and obsolete, but to plan future meetings for Walnut Hills' students interested in airplanes. In addition to becoming members of the Academy of Model Aeronautics, the members decided to contribute to the library a subscription of the Model Airplane News, as an added stimulus to insure new members and to inform any interested student of the club's nation-wide activities.

Walnut Hills' Athletes

Both girls' and boys' sports provide the students with athletic practice and form the instrument by which students can display their ability in good sportsmanship. Many of the sports are co-curricular activities and involve practices after school. The students profit from the skilled training as well as the fun.

Football Team Lettermen

Although the Eagles ended up in sixth place in the 1959 season, the team fought and worked to the best of their ability. Mr. Filbin and Mr. Bailey, the coaches for the team, did a fine job. Thirteen seniors saw their last Walnut Hills action this year. Jon MacEntyre received his second letter and was elected tri-captain. Mac was a good runner, ball handler, and was a superb half-back. For his fine work he was elected to the P.H.S.L. Team.

Half back Steve Goldman added moral support to the team. He was an excellent line backer for the defense. He was elected tri-captain for his good playing and was also elected to the P.H.S.L. Team.

Marty Peck's tremendous playing as half back was a valuable asset to the team. Marty was also tri-captain and he too was selected to the P.H.S.L. Team. The other back was Steve Rosenthal who collected his first letter. Others were Fred King, an excellent tackle, and Jon Robisch's rugged playing as tackle won him a second letter. many positions but usually defensive and offensive tackle. He too is a two-letter man. Larry Kroovand played on the kickoff teams and sometimes as a defensive half back. Jim Emerson collected his second letter by his savage line playing. Gordon Paine received his first letter for his good defensive time playing.

Ken Korrey, Eagle tackle, won his first varsity letter. Ronald Bridges was on the kickoff team and he completed the list of thirteen lettering seniors.

There were nine lettering juniors. They were: Dave Hathaway, Dick Gordon, Bob Yeager, Stu Haines, Don Hoard, Chuck Haines, Dave Stonebraker, Mike DeCamp, and Henry Neloms.

There were four sophomores who won letters. They were Steve West, Jim Lippert, Dick Lotspeich, and Bill Merkel.

Although ending up in sixth place, the Eagles showed a tough, high spirited team and representative of the school.

This year's Junior High football team won one game out of six, placing sixth in the Eastern Division of the Public Junior High School League. The objective of Junior High football, experience, was more than realized. Most of the boys had little previous football experience, and, under the capable direction of Mr. Gerald Campbell, they were taught the fundamentals of football and, essential to any competitive sport, they were taught the principles of good sportsmanship.

While preparing for future competition, the sophomore and junior basketeers faced tough competition in the reserve loop. This year the Eagles won several games, with the entire team performing capably. It is with high hopes and expectations that we look to this team, for next year's varsity basketeers will be picked from this squad.

Reserve Basketball Team

Freshman Basketball Team

The junior high basketball team ended its season with victories outweighing defeats. These boys, future reserve basketeers, met some stiff competition and managed to hold their own. The freshman team, aided by the outstanding play of the co-captains, displayed genuine good sportsmanship.

Swimming Team

The Senior Swimming Team, coached by "Whitey" Davis, brought victories to Walnut Hills this year. The boys were as high spirited as Coach Davis' team always manages to be. Frank Wood, Jon Spelman, John Moore, Smiley Bill Donohue, Paul Shuff, and others on the team, showed fine skill when set into freestyle relays and back stroke competition.

Freshman Swimming Team

Following the example of the Senior Swim Team, the Junior Swim Team showed promising material. They, too, were high spirited and worked hard for a profitable season. With promises for better things to come from these boys next year, we commend them for this year's work.

The improvement that was looked for in cross-country this year did not come until the final meet of the season. In this, the Eagle Harriers finished eighth in a field of over twenty teams, after coming in last in the P.H.S.L. However, prospects for the forthcoming season are promising because of the presence of good returning lettermen.

The Eagles were coached by the able Mr. Joseph Koke, and co-captained by Eric Ottesen and Bart Rapp. Though no one went to the state meet, sophomore Mark Cornett came close by placing sixteenth in the district, by far the best Eagle showing. Following Cornett were Jim Sayler, Ottesen, Dave Itcoff, and Jack Selbert. Others who competed for Walnut Hills were Bill Ammon, Dave Nichols, and Joe Ottaviani.

Co-Captains, Bart Rapp and Erice Ottesen, show their skill as they approach the finish line.

F. King warms up

This year's tracksters faced stiff competition in all their meets. But our track men have shown great promise for the future and records are expected to fall under the skill of our boys. Speedsters winning hurdle events and distance runners performed well. The student body looks to the non-graduating portion of the team to carry out spirit, skill, and enthusiasm.

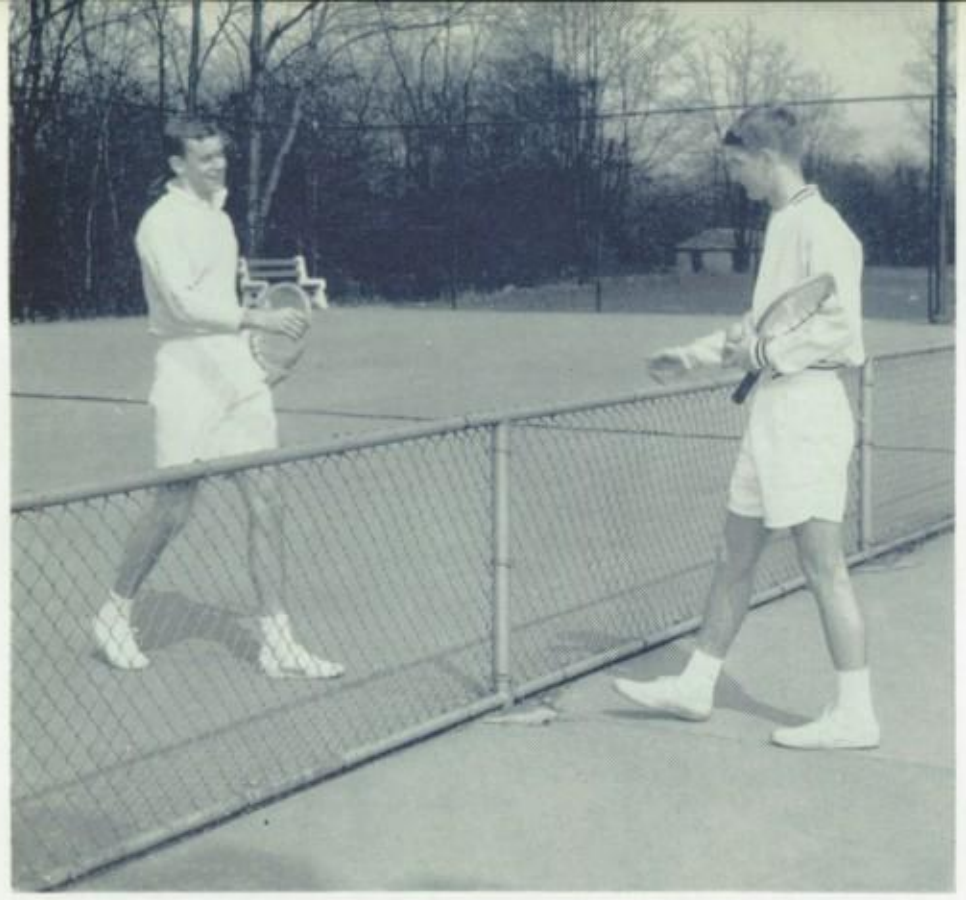
Tennis Team



Victor happy after singles match

The tennis season got under way with several returning lettermen. Under the leadership of the senior netmen, the Eagles tennis team had a successful season. The Eagle net men have a victorious record in their past and they were off to a good start again this year, for they experienced little difficulty in their opening encounters. Deep in the Walnut Hills tennis records we find they were victors of ninety nine straight matches. Both John Rauh and Tony Trabert are of Wally Hills vintage and set the hopes of the present team. The season ended on a note of hope and expectation, for many of the netters will return to vie for the state Crown next year.

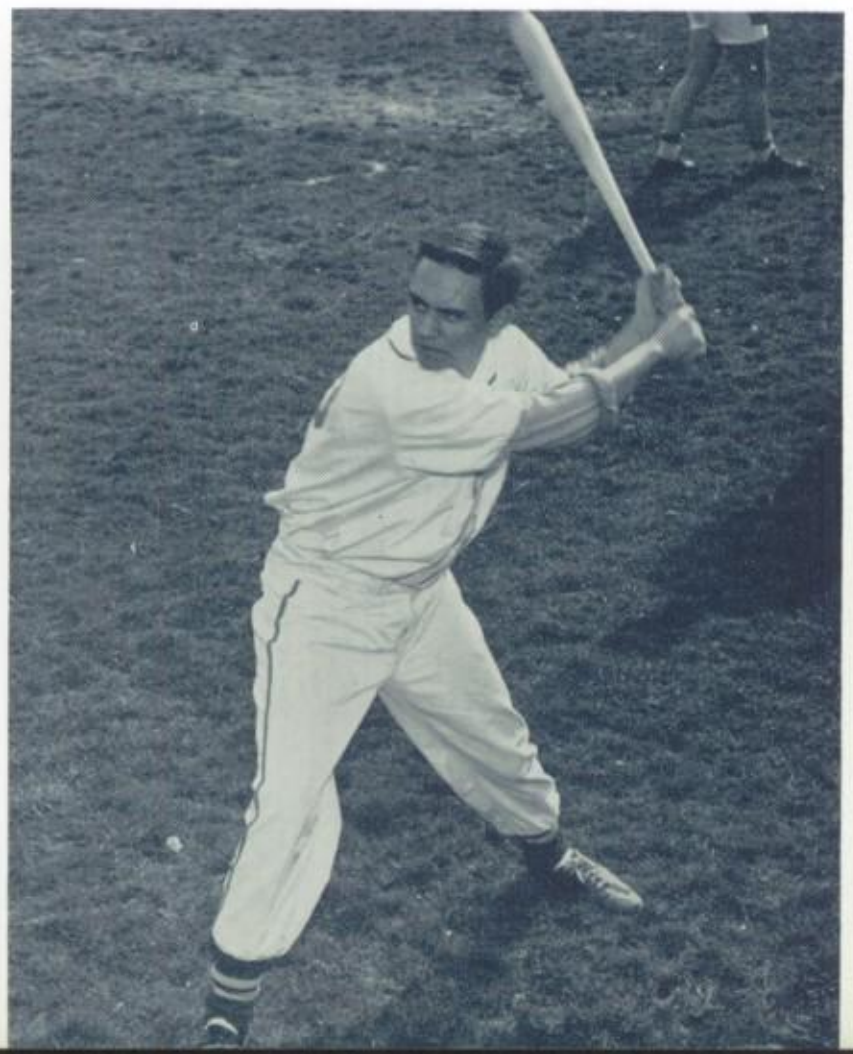
Bart Rapp practices his batting form before a game



This season the baseball team started practice with high hopes and a renewed spirit which carried last year's squad through one of the best campaigns in Walnut Hills' basebail history. With the return of six lettermen and pitching ace Jon Robish, who was scholastically ineligible during his junior year, Coach Meridith definitely feels that this year's team poses a strong threat to the league title. Besides fastballing Robish, mound duties are shared by Senior Jerry Fine and Junior Tee Medcalf. Supplementing the Eagle staff are sophomores Jim Lippert, Wayne Niecewander, and Steve Conver. A foolish stunt by the Walnuts cost the Eagles the services of Jon McEntyre and Tom Hyman for the first six games of the campaign. Without two-year letterman McEntyre, a shortstop, the Eagles left much to be desired at this position during the early games. Graduating members of this year's team include Bryan "Ducky" Brook, Jerry Fine, Tom Hyman, Jon MacEntyre, Marty Peck, Ron Parker, Bart Rapp, Jon Robisch, Mary Seitle, and Steve Zeigler.

Golf Team

The Eagle Golf Team competed against four P.H.S.L. teams this year: Hughes, Withrow, Western Hills, and Woodward, as well as schools from the G.C.L. and County Leagues. It also participated in the district matches held at Avon Fields and Tri-State tournaments. This year's team coached by Richard Filbin was centered around its two returning lettermen, Paul Shuff and Bill Waxman. Paul played his second year as first man while Bill moved from number three man to number two. Last year's team led by Paul Shuff and Bob Pendergrass finished second in the P.H.S.L. standings, one-half point behind Withrow. The Walnut Hills golf team has always had an excellent record, and this year's team has done its share to support that tradition.

Gymnastics Team

This year for the first time Walnut Hills had a Gym Team which was coached by Mr. Milt Melman. The team placed fourth in the city. The captain of the team was Tom Coates who was also the high scorer for the seniors. Jim Sayler, Jeff Kimple and Jeff Dalbey completed the list of seniors. The Reserve team placed third in the city and Bob Brown was the high scoring man of this team. Dan Harper, Bill Jacobs, John Otterman, John Sweet, Denny Gendleman, Phil Lowenthal and Phil Glassman complete the list of reserves.

Volleyball Team

That popular indoor sport that helped keep G.A.A. members fit in winter while they tallied up valuable points was volleyball. This year Bonnie Lishawa was in charge of volleyball. Practices and intramural games were played as scheduled with the purpose of sorting out the best players from each class. After these class teams were chosen, they prepared for games with each other, as well as with teams from other high schools. In the class team games, the Juniors emerged victorious. Moreover the playday, held at Woodward and Central on January 9, the G.A.A. volleyball team took fourth place. Girls who practiced hard had a chance of amassing a possible 150 points.

Tennis Team

In order to make use of all the good weather that was available, the tennis season was split into two sections: fall and spring. In the fall, the tennis ladder was drawn up to list the top twelve girl tennis players. Both Nancy Felson, in charge of tennis, and Mr. Nichols, a tennis pro, helped choose these girls. In the spring, a singles and doubles tournament was held. The tennis team then went into inter-city competition in a playday held at Lunken Playfield. At the Spring Banquet a cup was awarded to the winner of the tournament.

Chose reaches for a long one.

Archery

Thwang! A G.A.A. archer just made another bulls-eye! Girls who wanted to try their hand at being Robin Hoods went out for archery in the spring. After four practices, the girls were ready to take part in a tournament. This whole archery program was headed by Jan Leader. At the Spring Banquet, the best shots of the various rounds received medals as their rewards. To those girls who were winners or finalists went the further prize of 100 G.A.A. points. Only the best bowsmen were able to gain this mastery through long hours of practice.

Girls' Athletic Association

G.A.A. Board, the executive committee of G.A.A., organized many successful programs under the guidance of Joy Leader. The board, made up of the five officers and the heads of the various sports, was in charge of choosing team managers for the athletic programs, as well as planning social events.

The welcoming picnic for new members, the Annual Fall Banquet, a skating party, a CARE package to Korea, and the second annual basketball game between the girls and the senior boys were some of their successful programs.

High point of the year, however, was the G.A.A. Spring Banquet. Here, the Ring Girl was announced, and the tapping ceremony revealed the new sports heads.

132's Blues

Room 132 is a homely place,
Lot's of kids, but not much space,
Occasionally there's a little noise,
And some of the kids have a little poise,
The walls may crack badly,
The ceiling may fall to the ground,
When MIGHTY MR. GLESEN'S HAND,
Hits the desk with a HARD, HARD pound.
But it's home . . .

36 girls in our homeroom,
Add 1 teacher to make it boom!
In '45 we were born to moms and dads,
In '63 we hope to be grads!
On February 5th, the Frosh Dance was great,
great,
To be Freshmen in '60 was our fate!
Add them all together,
You'll see then,
It's the best homeroom—
It's Glesen's,

In dear old homeroom 213;
The atmosphere is anything but serene.
Girls rush in and then rush out,
With a laugh, a scream, or a shout.
Books fall loudly to the floor;
As a pair argue whether x is 2 or 4.
The bell may ring and announcements begin,
But only louder grows the din.
Miss Hope on her knees begs for "Pax",
The girls just read the Chatterbox.
And as we leave this crazy scene,
I close with the words:

"Compliments of a Friend."

Our junior year had lots of thrills
And we remember them all:
Peanuts—held to unite our class—
They were held in the fall.
The Homecoming Dance was another high point
And our job was to decorate.
We purchased class rings at the first of the year—
Sizes tiny or jumbo our fate.
We passed our exams—at least some of us did,
To Life With Mother we gave our support,
School spirit to the Eagles at games we made,
And we voted to keep Student Court.
Spring held its high moments—now let us recall:
There was the B-A Prom, oh, yes!
And some junior girls even qualified
For the Daisy Chain—that we confess.
We juniors were first to take PSAT,
We worried somewhat about college,
But we had enough to busy ourselves
Without worrying much about knowledge.
Our junior year sure was filled with events—
Soap to Laos, open houses, our party, and all
How did we survive? Well, we'll be back next year—
As seniors, we'll carry the ball!
